Healthy Living

Intentionally take deeper breaths, and drink only water with your meals. One of the leading causes of, nearly every illness, is poor breathing practice and little water intake. You will notice a surge of energy just from changing these two tiny habits. Sometimes the smallest changes make for the biggest differences.

Quick & Easy Financial Tip

Simple Money Saving Tip: Instead of going out to eat, put together a menu, and invite those same friends over for a home social. You will still have fun, in fact, maybe even more, and you will save money in the process.

The MindSnack Corner

Have you been reading through the 'MindSnack' over the last few weeks, and have you still found yourself, sort of, well, lost? Have you asked yourself, "What is it that I can actually do?" If you have found yourself in this place, then this week's 'MindSnack' is for you. One of the most common hang-ups, when we talk about passion, and deciding what you want, is the inability to make a decision on WHICH DIRECTION IS THE RIGHT DIRECTION. This line of thinking is complete fallacy. This is really a conditioned mindset aiming to keep you from moving forward. Yet, many people never actually choose, in fear that they will make the "wrong choice." Since, the "what is it..." question is so often the inhibitor in our ability to actually make a decision about our life, then take this time, and write those three words down: "What is it?" Remember, we get the answer to any question we ask. This is a bad question because it requires the RIGHT ANSWER... and when you need to be right, then fear says, don't answer. After all, what if the answer you choose is wrong, and you get stuck there forever? BAD DEAL!!! This is the reason why so many people don't know what they want! So how do we remedy this? How do we continue to move with inspiration, in spite of the need to be right? Simple, and we've studied this principle before! ASK BETTER QUESTIONS! Cross out the word "IT," and write in the word, "NEXT." What is the next thing you are willing to try? This is a much better question because NEXT can be anytime you are ready to move from what you are currently doing. Not quitting isn't always the key to success! Sometimes, you've GOT to quit what you're doing to get to where you want to go. So give yourself a break! If you aren't happy where you are, with what you are doing, then WHAT IS NEXT? Live the inspired life, NOW! T. Harv Eker said, "If you help people in a way that they need, or want, to be helped, and it's in the area that you love to help people in, you're going to love what you do, and you're going to make a lot of money..." You'll need a little skill, but the two most important factors are, are you helping people, and do you love helping people in that area?
